Are we heading for a new economic boom?

Jörgen Kennemar, Swedbanks macroeconomist is one of the keynote speakers at Internet Bay Partnering Event 2009. Jörgen is Swedbanks expert in contemporary social and environmental analysis and has previously been employed as conjuncture evaluator by amongst others "Företagarna"

(Swedish Federation of Business Owners) and "Svenskt Näringsliv" (Confederation of Swedish Enterprise).

In a recession it is crucial for companies to have insight in the economic situation, both in nationally and internationally, to understand how it will affect the economic future of ones company. Today contemporary social and environmental analysis and prognosis is more important than ever.

Joshua Davis attends the 2009 event

This year New York-based artist, designer and technologist Joshua Davis attends InternetBay Partnering Event as one of the 2009 key note speakers. Davis is renowned for pioneering an original method for computational, generative-art known as Dynamic Abstraction, where he uses software programs such as Flash and Illustrator to "generate unique visual compositions according to rules-based, randomized processes" (joshuadavis.com).

Davis produces public and private works for companies, collectors and institutions, and has exhibited his work at several international institutions such as Tate Modern, MoMA PS1, Guggenheim Bilbao, Le Centre Pompidou and new-media galleries Maxalot and Espeis. Among his client projects you will find names such as Nokia, Sony, Motorola, Canon, Amp'd Mobile, BMW, Volkswagen, Nike, and Universal Records.

More about InternetBay Partnering Event

The results speak for themselves. The first edition for the event was held in Luleå 2005 and since then many companies have found new collaboration partners through the event. Two thirds of the participating companies answered in a poll that the event has had a clearly positive effect on their business activities.

During the event you will have the opportunity to participate in interesting lectures and to network. All participants are also offered their own show case space with a small high desk and space for a roll-up.

We invite you and your company to participate at InternetBay partnering Event on November 26th with good possibilities to generate new business. Read more at: www.internetbaypartneringevent.com.
